❖ INTRODUCTION

The 64th National Pharmacy Week (NPW) 2025 was celebrated at Mahadeva Lal Schroff College of Pharmacy, Aurangabad, Bihar, from 16th to 22nd November 2025. National Pharmacy Week is an annual initiative of the Indian Pharmaceutical Association aimed at highlighting the vital role of pharmacists in the healthcare system. This year's theme, "Pharmacists as Advocates of Vaccination," was chosen to emphasize the importance of pharmacists in promoting vaccine awareness, improving immunization coverage, and supporting public health initiatives. The celebration at MLS College focused on educating students about vaccination, enhancing their communication skills, and encouraging them to participate in activities that reflect their future responsibilities as healthcare professionals.

❖ OBJECTIVES OF THE CELEBRATION

The primary objective of celebrating National Pharmacy Week 2025 was to promote understanding of the pharmacist's role in vaccination and immunization programs. The celebration aimed to provide students with educational, interactive, and skill-based activities that would help them understand public health responsibilities. Another objective was to encourage active participation in academic events such as seminars, essay writing, quizzes, and presentations, helping students develop confidence, leadership qualities, and scientific communication skills. The week also aimed to strengthen student-faculty collaboration and create awareness about the importance of pharmacists in disease prevention and patient counselling.

❖ DAY-WISE PROGRAMME & EVENT DESCRIPTION

1. Day 1: 19th November 2025 – Seminar and Guest Lecture:

The Seminar and Guest Lecture conducted on 19th November 2025 was a key academic highlight of the week. The program featured Dr. Mithilesh Prasad Singh, District Immunization Officer, and Dr. Naqueebuzzaman, Surveillance Medical Officer, NPSN-WHO, Aurangabad. The speakers discussed vaccine-preventable diseases, immunization strategies, cold-chain management, and the evolving responsibilities of pharmacists. Students actively interacted with the guests and gained valuable insights into vaccination policies and community awareness.

❖ OUTCOME OF THE CELEBRATION

The celebration of the 64th National Pharmacy Week had a significant academic and professional impact on students. It enhanced their understanding of vaccination and public health responsibilities, strengthening their awareness of the pharmacist's role as a healthcare educator. Students gained exposure to expert knowledge through the seminar, improving their conceptual clarity on immunization practices. Participation in competitions encouraged creativity, critical thinking, leadership, and communication skills. Faculty-student engagement increased throughout the week, creating an encouraging and collaborative learning environment. Overall, the celebration achieved its objective of promoting awareness about vaccination and enhancing the professional competence of budding pharmacists.

❖ CONCLUSION

The 64th National Pharmacy Week 2025 at Mahadeva Lal Schroff College of Pharmacy concluded successfully with active participation from students and wholehearted support from faculty members. The week-long celebration reinforced the importance of pharmacists in strengthening immunization programs and promoting public health. Through seminars, competitions, and interactive activities, students were able to expand their knowledge, enhance their skills, and understand their future responsibilities as healthcare professionals. The celebration served as an inspiring platform for learning, awareness, and professional development, aligning with the national theme "Pharmacists as Advocates of Vaccination."
